Opening Weekend set for September 28-29 with gala concert and Day of Music, a free community celebration

San Diego, CA (May 8, 2024) – The San Diego Symphony today announced the wide-ranging programs of its 2024-25 Jacobs Music Center season. The milestone season will introduce audiences to the orchestra’s revitalized indoor home, Jacobs Music Center, following a complete renovation which transforms the nearly-100-year-old-theater into an intimate concert hall designed to match the artistry of the San Diego Symphony. The inaugural season will feature 20 expansive and ambitious programs for its Jacobs Masterworks series, comprised of numerous new works, beloved masterpieces, rarely heard compositions, acclaimed and rising star soloists, and esteemed guest conductors. In addition, its Jazz @ The Jacobs and Family Concert series will return and San Diego Symphony will expand its offerings in three new series, including a Friday Matinee Jacobs Masterworks series, Currents and Symphony Kids.

The celebratory season has been carefully curated to showcase the virtuosity of the world-class musicians of San Diego Symphony Orchestra and bring to life the enhanced acoustics, features, and capabilities of the newly transformed hall. The Masterworks series opens and closes with monumental works by Gustav Mahler, with the Symphony No. 2 “Resurrection” opening the series and the Symphony No. 3 bringing the season to a dramatic close. Both works require massive orchestral resources, powerhouse singers, and full choruses, showcasing one of the hall’s new features—its Choral Terrace. The Choral Terrace serves as one of the most visually striking additions to the new hall and will not only be used for musical purposes but also as extra seating for audiences at select concerts, giving audiences a unique point of view and acoustical experience. The refurbished pipe organ—another key feature of the new hall—will be the centerpiece of Saint-Saëns’ Symphony No. 3.

“Every time I step into Jacobs Music Center, I am truly excited for what we are creating here, and I know the same is true for our musicians, who have been a central part of envisioning the hall we will open in the Fall of this year” said Martha Gilmer, CEO of the San Diego Symphony. “We are so proud to be a part of the vibrant community of San Diego. And that goes far beyond our two iconic venues in the heart of downtown. We cannot wait to welcome our audience home, and to welcome new friends who are experiencing it for the very first time.”

A Transformed Jacobs Music Center Opens a New Era

The San Diego Symphony’s 2024-25 season ushers in an exciting new era for California’s first orchestra as it welcomes audiences to a revitalized home.

The transformation of Jacobs Music Center began in early 2022 to enhance the musical and performance experience for artists and audiences alike while honoring the legacy of the nearly 100-year-old Fox Theatre. Elements of the renovation designed to elevate the hall’s acoustics include a custom-designed permanent orchestra enclosure, a tunable acoustic canopy, and the reconfiguration of both the stage and the audience seating, with the addition of a choral terrace behind the orchestra and a completely reshaped main seating level. The hall features new seating and finishes; restored architectural details; modernized lighting, sound, video and recording equipment; updated and expanded support spaces for musicians; and enhanced audience amenities. The project was designed by architectural firm HGA in collaboration with acoustician Paul Scarbrough of Akustiks and theater planner Schuler Shook. Major upgrades to the main mechanical systems of Jacobs Music Center were completed as well, which not only significantly enhance the comfort within the hall, but also contributes to the hall’s acoustic quality, and allows valuable space to be reprioritized for Symphony program uses. The revitalized hall will be inaugurated just three years after the San Diego Symphony opened its new waterfront home, The Rady Shell at Jacobs Park.

With this new era comes a new name for the orchestra’s indoor home, known as Copley Symphony Hall for more than 30 years. The David C. Copley Foundation has generously given the naming opportunity back to the symphony, so that a new donor can step forward at this momentous time.

“The Board of Directors of the David C. Copley Foundation is grateful that the San Diego Symphony has chosen to recognize the contributions of Helen Copley and the Copley family by calling its venue Copley Symphony Hall for more than 30 years. In recognition of the Symphony’s entering into an exciting new era, with the reopening of its renovated venue that will provide new naming opportunities to other community-minded philanthropists like Helen Copley, we are pleased to gift this naming opportunity back to San Diego Symphony in order to inspire a new generation of philanthropic support,” said Dean P. Dwyer, President and CEO of the David C. Copley Foundation.

“We are tremendously grateful to the Copley Foundation and the Copley Family for their legacy of support to San Diego Symphony as well as institutions throughout San Diego,” said David R. Snyder, Chair of the symphony’s Board of Directors. “We would not be where we are today, on the threshold of an exciting new chapter for our wonderful orchestra in a spectacular hall, without their generosity.”

Opening Weekend

The opening night concert and gala event on September 28 will feature Rafael Payare leading the Orchestra in the World Premiere of *Welcome, Home!!, a fanfare for Jacobs Music Center commissioned by the San Diego Symphony from Korean-born American composer Texu Kim. Distinguished soloists Inon Barnatan (piano), Alisa Weilerstein (cello), Hera Hyesang-Park (soprano), and Jeff Thayer (violin) add extra luster to the historic night that features works by Paganini, Rachmaninoff, Tchaikovsky, Rossini, and Ravel.

“We are so excited to welcome audiences to our new home and for people to experience this extraordinary orchestra in a hall that now matches its virtuosity,” said Music Director Rafael Payare, whose contract extends through the 2026-27 season. “We have assembled an array of exciting and different programs with special guest artists and opportunities for the orchestra to play in a wide range of configurations, demonstrating the sonic capabilities of our new home and the superb artistry of our musicians.”

Additionally, as part of its opening festivities the organization will offer a Day of Music on September 29, a free community day. Additional details will be announced at a later date.

Following last year’s California Festival, San Diego Symphony continues to highlight the work of contemporary composers with more than 16 works, including 3 commissioned by San Diego Symphony. ABOUT THE SAN DIEGO SYMPHONY

Founded in 1910, the San Diego Symphony is the oldest orchestra in California and one of the largest and most significant cultural organizations in San Diego. The Orchestra performs for more than 250,000 people each season, offering a wide variety of programming at its two much-loved venues, Jacobs Music Center in downtown San Diego and The Rady Shell at Jacobs Park on San Diego Bay. In early 2018, the San Diego Symphony announced the appointment of Rafael Payare as music director. Payare leads the orchestra's 82 full-time musicians, graduates of the finest and most celebrated music schools in the United States and abroad. The San Diego Symphony also serves as the orchestra for the San Diego Opera each season, as well as performing at several regional performing arts and community centers.
